

In the first part of this paper the project description, there is a clear and concise idea that the writer wants to do for their project. The writer wants to create a website using their IT skills they have learned here at Marymount University and implement them into the real world for soccer field owners in Saudi Arabia. The goal of this project is to make a list of the cities that own soccer fields so that a person may look up their city. After looking up their home location they will be able to choose from a list of soccer fields to view cost rates and availability. In my opinion on paper this sounds great and capable to do if there was an extended time limit past the fall semester, but in retrospect of the time period and the difficulty of having a working website by the end of the semester I feel the writer is truly not taking in consideration the full amount of time they are allotted. After reviewing the entire paper there are few grammatical errors, but nothing so serious that would change the interpretation of the paper. I also feel that the time line should be more detailed in the actual project that is going to be completed. Without a proper time line of meeting and communicating with the field owners and time that will be spent on the creation of the actual web page its self. I feel that it will take little more time than just 7-9 hours of work per week. If the writer does have a carefully thought out timeline I feel that this project will be able to be completed by the end of this fall semester of 2015.

As some advice I feel that the writer should try and trim the actual goal of the project down. Even though it is a good solid goal to have for this class I feel that if the writer falls short of some of its original goals then the end state of the project will not look so good. If the goal was a little smaller and the writer was able to go beyond that then the writer has gone above and beyond. If I was to write the goal for this project out I would state that the goal of this project is to create a webpage that has all the major cities in Saudi Arabia and that with in those major cities all the soccer fields would be listed with the owners name and phone number. Also the fields would have the monthly availability of the times on the website. My fear is that the writer may not be able to implement the ability to have a transaction on the page for people to be able to purchase time on the field and then have the website update the new availability on the site.

The project goal and description were clear and concise in the paper and the time lines for the assignments that are due are doable, and seem appropriate.
