

Peer Review I

The author's thesis is a testable hypothesis, after reading the submission it is clear on what the author's attempt to do, the author plans on creating an app called "myswagg" making it easier for friends who like to rate their fashion and comment on fashion tip are able to do so without causing a lot of distraction. The author has clearly stated their stance/position on the issue and what they will test or measure. This is a well written document, it states each point on which the author wants to create with the mobile app, I did not see many errors in the paper, I believe it was well written and each point was explaining clearly.

The timeline is very feasible, and the author specifically stated how he/she would get everything completed in a timely matter. I believe that this project could be completed in one semester. The author also stated that he/she has been working on this project prior, therefore it seems as though it will be completed due to the author knowing exactly what he/she wants to do. Comments that I have for this project, I believe the idea is well put together and that the author knows exactly what he/she is aiming for, I also believe due to the author's personal experience with friends needing an app like this “My Swagg”, the author seems very determine to complete this app.

The author should continue this idea of “my swag” in the future, because I believe it is a great idea and can be very beneficial to girls, such as girls myself, trying to determine fashion tips and outfits with the user’s friends. In conclusion, the author should be very successful and I look forward to seeing how this app turns out.
